Hello, and Welcome (or Welcome Back) to CU Denver,

I am Vivian Shyu, and am writing to you on behalf of UCDALI (the University of Colorado Denver Association of Lecturers and Instructors). I wanted to introduce myself as President of the association, tell you a little bit about our organization, and about how we work to support you as a member of the CU Denver faculty.

As a Lecturer at our University, you are automatically a member of UCDALI. We represent ALL Instructional faculty that are not on the tenure-track. Furthermore, as a Lecturer, you number among the majority of the faculty teaching undergraduates on our campus. You play a pivotal role in educating our students, and we realize that many of you educate many of them. That said, we want to make sure you are aware that you can turn to our group for information, representation, networking, and community.

In addition, we have gathered some other important resource information in this Welcome packet, just in case you were not able to make the New Faculty Orientation. Whether or not you attended, please feel free to contact me directly at Vivian.Shyu@ucdenver.edu or visit our UCDALI website, or email us at ucdali@ucdenver.edu if you have any questions, would like more information, or would like to get involved with our association.

I hope your class or classes are fantastic, and that we might cross paths at some point this semester.

Best regards,

Vivian

Dear Colleagues,

Welcome to CU Denver and to our Lynx family!

As lecturers, you play a very important role in helping further our students’ success. While this academic year will look different than any of us could have imagined, you’ll still have extensive interaction with our students, whether in person or virtually. As such, your impact will be considerable. We appreciate the unique insights and experiences you will bring to our students as part of their educational journey.

In collaboration with UCDALI, we are working to ensure all faculty members feel supported in their efforts to bring the highest levels of rigor, learning and inspiration to our students -- especially during this strange and unsettling time.

I’ve been chancellor here since July 1, so we’ll be learning and growing together. I welcome your talents, knowledge, fresh ideas, and new perspectives, and extend my best wishes for a successful and rewarding semester. Thank you in advance for the contributions you will make to CU Denver and our remarkable students.

Sincerely,

Michelle Marks
Chancellor

Dear New Lecturers,

Welcome, or welcome back, to CU Denver! We are glad that you’ve joined our faculty.

My name is Karen Sobel. I direct a relatively new center at CU Denver, the Center for Faculty Development and Advancement (CFDA). I hope that in the coming year, you choose to participate in CFDA programs and events that my colleagues Donna Sobel, Ph.D. (Assistant Director), Lexie King (Program Assistant), and I offer, in conjunction with a number of CU Denver faculty.

The CFDA supports all faculty in several ways:
• Guiding you as you prepare for managing the demands of your position.
• Assisting you with the development of materials associated with merit, promotion, and/or applying for professional awards
• Supporting your growth as a leader, and as an expert in your field
• Connecting you with the campus community of faculty

Read about the CFDA’s full collection of offerings at: http://www.ucdenver.edu/cfda

This is doubtless an unusual semester. I’d like to make you aware of the many ways that the CFDA can support you as a faculty member and help you continue to grow—now and always. In Fall 2020, our services and programs will be offered virtually. Please join any programs that interest you, and reach out whenever we may support you.

New faculty members are encouraged to join the CFDA’s First-Year Faculty Experience (FYFE). Members of FYFE meet monthly to connect, build skills that support their faculty roles, and meet with campus administrators who can help support their success. Learn more at: https://www.ucdenver.edu/faculty_staff/faculty/center-for-faculty-development/programs/First%20Year%20Faculty%20Experience/Pages/default.aspx

The CFDA’s Faculty Mentoring Program may be of particular interest to you. The program connects faculty members as mentee/mentor pairs. The pairs meet several times each semester to discuss the mentee’s development as a professional. Faculty are welcome to apply to become a mentee at any career stage. Interested potential mentors are also welcome to contact us. Learn more about the program at:
https://www.ucdenver.edu/faculty_staff/faculty/center-for-faculty-development/programs/Faculty%20Mentoring/Pages/default.aspx

The CFDA provides programming that supports faculty members’ growth throughout the year. Fall 2020’s program series include “Five Secrets for Extraordinary Productivity,” “Keep Your Research Rolling” (on supporting your scholarly practice during current conditions), several sessions hosted by the Faculty Mentoring Program, and a special session on Self-Compassion. See a full listing, sign up for sessions, and watch recordings of past sessions on our home page: http://www.ucdenver.edu/cfda

We wish you a productive, enjoyable, and healthy semester at CU Denver. Please consider joining our programs, and reach out any time we can be of help.

Sincerely,

Karen Sobel, Ed.D.
Director, CFDA
Hello New Faculty Member:

Welcome to the University of Colorado Denver! We are so pleased that you are joining our faculty.

We recognize that most part-time faculty members like yourself (lecturers) are working professionals so we have created professional development opportunities that address your needs. For example, our Design & Teach a Virtual Course is a self-paced, non-facilitated 10-module Canvas course, meaning that you can work through the contents at your own pace, and based on your own needs and interests.

The Center for Excellence in Teaching and Learning offers a variety of programming throughout the academic year that will help you learn about evidence-based best practices in teaching and learning. Participating in these programs will not only help you to become a more proficient teacher, it will also help you make connections with colleagues across the university. This year, you can attend all our programs via Zoom video conferencing.

Please check the Center for Excellence in Teaching and Learning website for a full description of all of our programs (www.ucdenver.edu/CETL). Our team of dedicated faculty fellows have designed these programs for you, and I hope that you will join us!

I look forward to meeting you soon!
