Biography

May Tran is the Community Liaison for the Asian/Refugee community in Denver, Colorado. May works as an independent contractor. Fluent in four languages (Chinese-Cantonese, Vietnamese, French, and English), May is a client navigator, an interpreter, a translator, and a mammogram coordinator for CAHEP. As a boat refugee herself, May has a passion to help the Vietnamese and Chinese communities in Denver by utilizing her networking skills and languages. She was born in a Chinese family, lived in Viet Nam, went to a private French School, and graduated from Metropolitan State College with Magna Cum Laude in Computer Management Science. She is a member of the Asian Roundtable of Colorado, a Board of Director for the Vietnamese Big Heart Non-Profit Organization, and a Board of Director for The Pearl Foundation. May also volunteers her time to play classical piano to the senior citizens in Denver metro areas. As a Community Liaison, she will be able to build relationships and connect the dots between the researchers at the University and the diverse Asian communities.
